

Park Service is the responsible federal agency.

The document proposes a plan and rationale for addressing national historic site issues and concerns, resource preservation and visitor service needs.

Since 1965, Saint-Gaudens NHS has remained virtually unchanged in appearance. In 1990 the National Park Service began a long-range planning effort to determine the future needs of the site. That effort looked at site interpretation, staffing, collections preservation, and administrative, maintenance, and visitor facilities needs. Because this is a long-range plan, funding for implementation of the proposed actions will occur over an extended period of time, perhaps as much as 20 years.

The plan outlines a two-phased program that addresses each of the areas of concern while minimizing impacts on historic structures and landscape. The first phase focuses on rehabilitating and modestly expanding existing structures to address site needs, minimizing new construction and its associated impacts on the historic landscape. The second phase, a much longer range vision, provides for growth onto two adjacent properties, providing additional interpretive potential and upgraded administrative and security facilities in existing structures. It also provides the visitor with a much greater understanding of Saint-Gaudens, the milieu in which he lived, and the sculpture process, and also provides greater coverage of the Cornish Art Colony.

The General Management Plan/Final Environmental Impact Statement incorporates public and agency comments received during the public review period of the draft document which occurred from May 12 to July 10, 1995. Copies of the General Management Plan/Final Environmental Impact Statement are available for review by contacting the Superintendent, Saint-Gaudens National Historic Site. Any comments on this plan or the environmental impact statement must be received by the Superintendent before July 14, 1996.

In accordance with Departmental policy, 28 CFR 50.7, and pursuant to Section 113(g) of the Clean Air Act, 42 U.S.C. 7413(g), notice is hereby given that on May 22, 1996, a proposed Consent Decree in Sierra Club v. Public Service Company of Colorado, Inc., Civil Action No. 93-B-1749, was lodged with the United States District Court for the District of Colorado. The proposed Consent Decree settles the claims of the plaintiff Sierra Club, and the proposed plaintiff-intervenors, the United States and the State of Colorado, pursuant to the Clean Air Act, 42 U.S.C. 7401 et seq., and the State of Colorado's State Implementation Plan against the defendants Public Service Company of Colorado, Inc., Salt River Project Agricultural Improvement and Power District and PacifiCorp. The claims of Sierra Club, the United States and the State of Colorado relate to the operation of Hayden Station, a fossil fuel-fired power generating facility in Hayden, Colorado, owned and operated by the defendants.

Under the terms of the Consent Decree, the defendant will pay a $2,000,000 civil penalty to the United States Treasury to resolve the claims of Sierra Club and the United States. The defendants must determine within 180 days of lodging whether the two power generating units at Hayden Station will be converted from combusting coal as a primary fuel source to combusting natural gas. If the defendants elect to continue combusting coal at Hayden Station, air pollution control equipment to reduce emissions of sulfur dioxide, nitrogen oxides and particulate matter must be installed at Hayden Station for Unit 1 by December 31, 1998 and for Unit 2 by December 31, 1999. If the defendants elect to convert Hayden Station to natural gas, the conversion must be completed by December 31, 1998.
