SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Background

Restoring an endangered or threatened animal or plant to the point where it is again a secure, self-sustaining member of its ecosystem is a primary goal of the Service's endangered species program. To help guide recovery efforts, the Service prepares recovery plans for most of the listed species native to the United States. Recovery plans describe actions considered necessary for conservation of listed species, establish criteria for the recovery levels for reclassification from endangered to threatened or removal from the list, and estimate the time and cost for implementing the needed recovery measures.

The Endangered Species Act of 1973, as amended (Act) (16 U.S.C. 1531 et seq.) requires the development of recovery plans for listed species unless such a plan would not promote the conservation of a particular species. Section 4(f) of the Act requires that public notice and an opportunity for public review and comment be provided during recovery plan development. The Service will consider all information presented during a public comment period prior to approval of each new or revised recovery plan. The Service and other Federal agencies will take these comments into account in the course of implementing approved recovery plans.

The draft recovery plan for the Owens Basin wetland and aquatic species addresses conservation of the following species: Owens tui chub, Owens pupfish, Fish Slough milk-vetch, Owens speckled dace, Long Vally speckled dace, Inyo County mariposa lily, Owens Valley checkerbloom, Fish Slough springsnail, Owens Valley springsnail, Aardhal's springsnail, and Owens Valley vole. Owens tui chub and Owens pupfish are federally listed as endangered, and the Fish Slough milk-vetch has been proposed for listing as endangered. All of these species are threatened by loss and degradation of wetland and aquatic habitats.

The draft recovery plan was developed in accordance with the Service's recent policy emphasizing an ecosystem approach to conservation of endangered species. The goal of the recovery plan is to restore the target species to secure status within their natural habitats. Protecting the ecosystem of endangered species in the Owens Basin will also protect other locally rare species, and, it is hoped, avert future declines in plant and wildlife populations that could lead to future listings.

The draft recovery plan was developed with the participation of State and Federal land management agencies, local agencies and property owners, including the California Department of Fish and Game, U.S. Bureau of Land Management, Inyo National Forest, and the Los Angeles Department of Water and Power. The plan calls for restoration of wetland and aquatic habitats throughout the Owens River drainage. The plan describes tasks that, when accomplished, should ensure the survival of target species, and thereby justify their removal from the endangered and threatened species list.

Public Comments Solicited

The Service solicits written comments on the recovery plan described herein. All comments received by the date specified above will be considered prior to approval of the plan.

AGENCY: Bureau of Land Management, Interior.

ACTION: Notice of intent and scoping period.

SUMMARY: The Bureau of Land Management intends to amend the Lands portion of the Paradise-Denio and Sonoma-Gerlach Management Framework Plans. The purpose of these amendments is to give the Winnemucca District more flexibility to consider requests for disposal and acquisition actions that involve parcels that have not previously been specifically identified in existing land use plans.

Lands considered for acquisition would serve certain purposes. Additionally, lands considered for disposal would be evaluated based on criteria including, but not limited to, public resource values or concerns, accessibility, and other factors. All land disposal actions are discretionary.

Exchange is the preferred method of disposal, but sales would be considered where more efficient. Disposal of these lands would be made on a case-by-case basis, and would be accomplished by the most appropriate disposal authority. All lands considered for disposal must meet one or more of the criteria outlined in Sec. 203(a) of the Federal Land Policy and Management Act. A 30-day scoping period to solicit public comment on the Paradise-Denio and Sonoma-Gerlach (Lands) Amendments is scheduled.
