

over these years. Further, Capacity can achieve compliance with Standard No. 121 after some delay, but presents arguments why it may not be in the public interest to do so.

NHTSA has great flexibility in its interpretation of the phrase "substantial economic hardship." Ordinarily it may consider cumulative net losses a per se demonstration of hardship, but it specifically invites applicants to submit "[a] discussion of any other hardships (e.g., loss of market) that the petitioner desires the agency to consider." (49 CFR 555.7(a)(1)(D)(vi)). In this situation, Capacity will not have a problem if it accelerates its manufacturing schedule to complete the order before the effective date of the new provisions of Standard No. 121. But this can be achieved only at the cost of hiring and training additional manufacturing personnel, and requiring its work force to work exclusively and overtime on filling the order of the Postal Service to the detriment of other customers whose orders will then be delayed. These costs cannot be recovered under Capacity's fixed cost contract with the Postal Service. NHTSA also notes that the quality of the vehicles may suffer when vehicles are rushed to completion by a newly-trained work force. All these are hardship factors that NHTSA deems relevant to its determination.

The facts also indicate that the Administrator's findings that a manufacturer has made a good faith effort to conform and that an exemption is in the public interest and consistent with traffic safety objectives stem from the following scenario. Capacity can achieve compliance no later than 3 months after the effective date of the amendments to Standard No. 121. While it is willing to defer completion of its order until then, this is not acceptable to its customer who has already taken delivery of the initial vehicles for which it has contracted. Delayed delivery will not only deprive the Postal Service of vehicles it needs, but also require it to train drivers and maintenance personnel in two differing procedures. NHTSA believes that this may complicate replacement parts inventories as well. All in all, this would appear to increase the costs to the Postal Service which will contribute to the on-going economic pressure for increases in postal rates. The effect on safety of providing an exemption for 60 truck tractors which will spend only an estimated 5% of their lives on the public roads would appear to be de minimis.

On the basis of the foregoing, it is hereby found for good cause shown, that compliance with Standard No. 121 would cause substantial economic hardship to a manufacturer that has tried in good faith to comply with the standard. It is further found that a temporary exemption is in the public interest and consistent with the objectives of traffic safety. Accordingly, Capacity of Texas, Inc., is hereby granted NHTSA Temporary Exemption No. 96-1 from paragraph S5.1.6 of 49 CFR 571.121 Motor Vehicle Safety Standard No. 121 "Air Brake Systems" expiring June 1, 1997.
