

the parties. Mediation is a method of dispute resolution where a mediator attempts to facilitate a settlement of the dispute. The NYSE states that when mediation is successful, cases are settled earlier, often with significant cost savings. The Commission recognizes the SIA's concern that mediation should be a voluntary process and that the proposed new rule requires a single mediation session in certain instances. However, the Commission believes that in this instance, where the requirement is limited to non-customer cases, is only for large cases, and is required for a two year period the possible benefits outweigh any perceived inequity.¹² In addition, the Commission notes it is only the first session that is mandatory, that the NYSE is paying the mediator's fee, and that any settlement reached must be with the participation and consent of each party.

Finally, the Commission believes it is reasonable under the Act to require an administrative conference between the parties and the arbitrator in all large cases, in order to attempt to expedite the arbitration process and reduce costs of the arbitration. An administrative conference early in the process will allow the arbitrators to intervene to establish discovery schedules, resolve discovery disputes and other preliminary matters, and to attempt to narrow the issues in dispute and avoid costly contests over procedural matters.¹³

V. Conclusion

It is therefore ordered, pursuant to section 19(b)(2) of the Act,¹⁴ that the proposed rule change (SR-NYSE-98-27) is approved. The mediation program, Rule 638, and the administrative conference rule, Rule 639, are each approved on a two-year pilot basis through November 20, 2000.

For the Commission, by the Division of Market Regulation, pursuant to delegated authority.¹⁵
