States v. American Allied Additives, Inc., et al., No. 00-01014, was lodged with the United States District Court for the Northern District of Ohio. The proposed consent decree would also resolve Advanced Chemical Design's counterclaim against the United States alleging a taking of private property in violation of the Fifth Amendment to the United States Constitution.

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency ("EPA") incurred unreimbursed costs of approximately $148,000 in responding to the release or threatened release of hazardous substances at the Site. Advanced Chemical Design is liable for response costs at the Site as a generator of waste disposed there and is subject to civil penalties as a result of noncompliance with a Unilateral Administrative Order issued by EPA for the performance of an emergency removal at the Site.

Under the proposed consent decree, Advanced Chemical Design agrees to pay a total of $1,000 ($300 for the claim under CERCLA Section 106, and $700 for the claim under CERCLA Section 107) within thirty (30) days of entry of the consent decree. Advanced Chemical Design also agrees to dismiss with prejudice its counterclaim against the United States. In exchange, Advanced Chemical Design will receive a covenant not to sue for Site response costs, and for civil penalties for the violations alleged in the complaint. Advanced Chemical Design will also receive contribution protection for Site response costs.

For a period of thirty (30) days from the date of this publication, the Department of Justice will receive comments related to the proposed consent decree.
