

this case, if the notice is to reach beneficial owners, the DTC participant must identify those clients and retransmit the documents to them. In some cases, there are multiple nominees between DTC and the ultimate beneficial owner. For example, a dealer that safekeeps securities for customers may do so through a DTC participant bank.

Even under the best of circumstances, an official communication may take a week or more to reach beneficial owners. Bankers Trust stated its concern over potential delays in the timing of dissemination of documents under the procedure outlined in the March 2001 draft amendment. The MSRB notes, however, that the proposed rule change is not intended to be a mechanism for dissemination of time-critical material information to market participants, but rather addresses the problem of how the specific owners of an issue can be identified and communicated with, for example, under the terms of a trust indenture when a vote of securities holders is being held. The MSRB believes it is important to acknowledge that retransmitting paper documents through a chain of nominees and other custodians cannot possibly provide information to beneficial owners as quickly as the information in those documents will reach the market from other sources such as information vendors, NRMSIRs, the issuer's web site, etc. The MSRB believes that if each nominee acts promptly when it is its turn to act, official communications normally should reach beneficial owners in a week or two and this normally will be sufficient time for a vote of bondholders or other purposes that require the issuer (or trustee if it chooses to do so) to communicate directly with bondholders.

Compensation. As noted above, the March 2001 draft amendment included a compensation provision noting that, if total compensation would be more than $500.00, the dealer must contact the sender and inform it of the amount of compensation required and obtain specific agreement on the amount of compensation prior to retransmitting the official communication and may wait for receipt of such compensation prior to proceeding. Bankers Trust stated that the March 2001 draft amendment "allows for delays in forwarding official communications to beneficial owners while the dealer seeks compensation from the issuer or trustee." The MSRB realizes that the requirement to seek compensation for retransmissions costing in excess of $500 prior to passing on documents could cause unnecessary delays in retransmitting official communications since some dealers may feel comfortable that an issuer will follow through on their offer of compensation, even prior to obtaining a specific agreement to pay such an amount. The RMOA, for example, stated "in most cases compensation would take a back seat to [their] strong commitment to an informed customer."

The MSRB decided to change the compensation threshold so that it would be an optional course of action for the dealer rather than a requirement. The revised compensation provision would permit those dealers who would like to retransmit official communications as promptly as possible, even without assurance that compensation will be provided, to do so without having to wait for receipt of agreement or funds from the party offering compensation. However, for dealers that wish to be assured that compensation would be provided on retransmissions costing in excess of $500, the option is left for the dealer to seek specific agreement with the party offering compensation and to receive funds prior to retransmitting documents.
