

a reasonable number of years after first meeting the Administrator's other costs;

They must be based upon the Administrator's total system costs; and

Insofar as transmission rates are concerned, they must equitably allocate the costs of the Federal transmission system between Federal and non-Federal power.⁵

9. Commission review of Bonneville's non-regional, non-firm rates also is limited. Review is restricted to determining whether such rates meet the requirements of section 7(k) of the Northwest Act,⁶ which requires that they comply with the Bonneville Project Act, the Flood Control Act of 1944, and the Federal Columbia River Transmission System Act (Transmission System Act). Taken together, those statutes require Bonneville to design its non-regional, non-firm rates:

(1) To recover the cost of generation and transmission of such electric energy, including the amortization of investments in the power projects within a reasonable period;

(2) To encourage the most widespread use of Bonneville power; and

(3) To provide the lowest possible rates to consumers consistent with sound business principles.

10. Unlike the Commission's statutory authority under the Federal Power Act, the Commission's authority under sections 7(a) and 7(k) of the Northwest Power Act does not include the power to modify the rates. The responsibility for developing rates in the first instance is vested with Bonneville's Administrator. The rates are then submitted to the Commission for approval or disapproval. In this regard, the Commission's role can be viewed as an appellate one: To affirm or remand the rates submitted to it for review.⁷

11. Moreover, review at this interim stage is further limited. In view of the volume and complexity of a Bonneville rate application, such as the one now before the Commission in this filing, and the limited period in advance of the requested effective date in which to review the application,⁸ the Commission generally defers resolution of issues on the merits of Bonneville's application until the order on final confirmation. Thus, the proposed rates, if not patently deficient, generally are approved on an interim basis and the parties are afforded an additional opportunity to raise issues.⁹

Interim Approval

12. Protesters contend that Bonneville has not shown the need for the rate increase. They argue that the proposed GRSPs will operate to preclude the Commission's statutorily mandated review of future SN CRAC rate adjustments, as required under the Northwest Power Act. They contend that Bonneville has not based the rates on its total system costs, as required by the Northwest Power Act. Protesters also argue, among other things, that (1) Bonneville's application is deficient and fails to comply with the Northwest Power Act, (2) Bonneville failed to file a complete evidentiary record, (3) Bonneville relied on data and information that was not included in the evidentiary record, (4) Bonneville denied the parties in this proceeding due process, and (5) Bonneville submitted materials and a Notice of Filing that do not comply with the Commission's regulations.

13. The Commission's preliminary review indicates that Bonneville's filing appears to meet the minimum threshold filing requirements of part 300 of the Commission's regulations and the statutory standards. Because the Commission's preliminary review of Bonneville's submittal indicates that they do not contain any patent deficiencies, the proposed modifications will be approved on an interim basis pending our full review for final approval. We note, as well, that no one will be harmed by this decision because interim approval allows Bonneville's rates to go into effect subject to refunds with interest if the Commission later determines in its final decision not to approve the rates.¹⁰

14. In addition, we will provide an additional period of time for the parties to file comments and reply comments on all issues related to final confirmation and approval of Bonneville's proposed rates. This will ensure that the record in this proceeding is complete.

The Commission Orders

(A) Protesters' requests to reject Bonneville's filing are hereby denied.

(B) Interim approval of Bonneville's filing is hereby granted, to become effective on October 1, 2003, subject to refund with interest as set forth in section 300.20(c) of the Commission's regulations, 18 CFR 300.20(c) (2003), pending final action on either its approval or disapproval.

(C) Within thirty (30) days of the date of this order, all parties who wish to do so may file additional comments regarding final confirmation and approval of Bonneville's proposed rates. All parties who wish to do so may file reply comments within twenty (20) days thereafter.

(D) The Secretary shall promptly publish this order in the Federal Register.

By the Commission.
