Synopsis

On August 24, 2004, the ATA filed a petition for declaratory ruling, asking the Commission to preempt certain provisions of the New Jersey Consumer Fraud Act and New Jersey Administrative Code (New Jersey Rules) relating to telemarketing. ATA contends that the New Jersey Rules are more restrictive than the rules established by the Commission under the Telephone Consumer Protection Act (TCPA). More specifically, ATA argues that the New Jersey Rules are inconsistent with the Commission's "established business relationship" exemption, fail to provide a personal relationship exemption, and impose stricter identification requirements on telemarketers. Furthermore, ATA indicates that the New Jersey Rules are not limited to intrastate telemarketing, but apply to all telemarketing calls to New Jersey consumers regardless of where the calls originate. ATA therefore requests that the Commission preempt those provisions of the New Jersey Rules which are more restrictive than the Commission's rules as they relate to interstate telemarketing.

Synopsis

On September 13, 2004, FreeEats.com, Inc., dba ccAdvertising (Petitioner or ccAdvertising) filed a petition for expedited declaratory ruling, asking the Commission to preempt certain provisions of North Dakota state law. Petitioner explains that it is a Virginia-based company that uses prerecorded messages to conduct political polling, most of which involves interstate calls. According to Petitioner, the North Dakota attorney general's office has notified ccAdvertising that its use of autodialed, prerecorded message technology is regulated by the state's telemarketing statutes, and that the state intends to enforce against ccAdvertising section 51-28-02 of the North Dakota Century Code, which prohibits the use of prerecorded messages without authorization from the called party. Petitioner contends that North Dakota's law is inconsistent with the Telephone Consumer Protection Act (TCPA) and with the Commission's telemarketing rules, both of which permit political polling calls using prerecorded messages. Therefore, Advertising requests that the Commission preempt North Dakota's more restrictive regulation of interstate political polling calls.
