SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: Under section 108(a) of the Clean Air Act (CAA), the Administrator identifies and lists certain pollutants which “cause or contribute to air pollution which may reasonably be anticipated to endanger public health or welfare.” The EPA then issues air quality criteria for listed pollutants, which are commonly referred to as “criteria pollutants.” The air quality criteria are to “accurately reflect the latest scientific knowledge useful in indicating the kind and extent of all identifiable effects on public health or welfare which may be expected from the presence of [a] pollutant in the ambient air, in varying quantities.” Under section 109 of the CAA, EPA establishes NAAQS for each listed pollutant, with the NAAQS based on the air quality criteria. Section 109(d) of the CAA requires periodic review and, if appropriate, revision of existing air quality criteria. The revised air quality criteria reflect advances in scientific knowledge on the effects of the pollutant on public health or welfare. The EPA is also required to periodically review and revise the NAAQS, if appropriate, based on the revised criteria.

Lead is one of six criteria pollutants for which EPA has established air quality criteria and NAAQS. Presently, EPA is reviewing the air quality criteria and NAAQS for lead. The EPA completed its Air Quality Criteria for Lead (“Criteria Document”) in October, 2006 (71 FR 57508; September 29, 2006).

As part of its review of the NAAQS, EPA is preparing a human exposure and health risk assessment.

In December 2006, a first draft of a technical support document, Lead Human Exposure and Health Risk Assessments and Ecological Risk Assessment for Selected Areas (Pilot Phase) was released by EPA for public review and comment and for review by the Clean Air Scientific Advisory Committee (CASAC) of EPA’s Science Advisory Board (71 FR 69117; November 29, 2006) at a public meeting held in February 2007. An analysis plan for the risk assessment was previously reviewed by CASAC and the public. Comments received from review of the draft plan and draft pilot phase risk assessment technical support document have been considered in developing the Draft Risk Assessment Report being released at this time.

The draft report, Lead Human Exposure and Health Risk Assessment for Selected Case Studies, describes the design, methodology and results of the human exposure and health risk assessments for lead. It describes and presents the results from a lead exposure analysis and health risk assessment involving several case studies. The draft document will be available online at: http://www.epa.gov/ttn/naaqs/standards/pb/s_pb_cr_td.html.

The EPA is soliciting advice and recommendations from the CASAC by means of a review on the draft Risk Assessment Report at an upcoming public meeting of the CASAC. A Federal Register notice will inform the public of the date and location of that meeting. Following the CASAC meeting, EPA will consider comments received from the CASAC and the public in preparing a final Risk Assessment Report.

Dated: July 19, 2007.
