Institutional Review Responsibilities

• What are the characteristics of a dual use research review committee? What expertise will be needed?

• How should institutional review responsibilities be fulfilled?

■ Should institutions be required to establish their own review committees?

○ Can existing institutional review committees fulfill these characteristics (e.g., the Institutional Biosafety Committee) as is or with some modification?

○ If the IBC, what additional expertise would be needed to facilitate the review of dual use research of concern?

○ Would most institutions likely have the necessary in-house expertise for this review?

○ Would it be helpful to have the option of utilizing a commercial review entity or the review entity at another institution?

■ Should regional committees or a national committee be established

○ As optional review mechanisms?

○ In lieu of a requirement to establish committees at the institutional level?

○ In an advisory capacity (e.g., the NIH RAC) to give recommendations on specific protocols, leaving final approval authority with the institutions?

○ How much of a burden would this proposed oversight system pose to your institution?

Panel III: "Guidance and Educational Resources Needed To Assist the Research Community in its Fulfillment of Oversight Responsibilities for Dual Use Research"

Since the outset of its deliberations, the NSABB has noted the importance of awareness in dealing effectively with dual use research and the need for more outreach and education on this issue, particularly to the investigator community, where various studies document a low level of awareness. In its report, the NSABB makes a number of observations and recommendations for promoting awareness, as well as receiving stakeholder input on evolving policies. The NSABB also views several elements of the oversight framework—the code of conduct, communications guidance, and the guidance on identifying dual use research—as key educational tools. The U.S. Government is seeking input on the following matters:

• Has the NSABB identified the major educational and outreach priorities in its report (pages 29–31)? If not, what other priorities should there be?

• How might the following elements of the Oversight Framework be used as educational tools:

■ Criterion and associated guidance.

■ Guidance on responsible communication of dual use research of concern.

■ Code of conduct.

• What other kinds of educational resources, tools, and strategies would be helpful or particularly effective in educating various audiences, such as investigators, research administration, biosafety staff, and others?

Background

The Department of Homeland Security (DHS), through the United States Coast Guard and the Transportation Security Administration (TSA), issued a joint final rule (72 FR 3492; January 25, 2007) pursuant to the Maritime Transportation Security Act (MTSA), Pub. L. 107-295, 116 Stat. 2064 (November 25, 2002), and the Security and Accountability for Every Port Act of 2006 (SAFE Port Act), Pub. L. 109-347 (October 13, 2006). This rule requires all credentialed merchant mariners and individuals with unescorted access to secure areas of a regulated facility or vessel to obtain a TWIC. In this final rule, on page 3510, TSA and Coast Guard stated that a phased enrollment approach based upon risk assessment and cost/benefit would be used to implement the program nationwide, and that TSA would publish a notice in the Federal Register indicating when enrollment at a specific location will begin and when it is expected to terminate.

This notice provides the start date for TWIC initial enrollment at the Ports of Longview, WA on June 26, 2008; and Vancouver, WA on July 3, 2008. The Coast Guard will publish a separate notice in the Federal Register indicating when facilities within the Captain of the Port Zone Portland, including those in the Ports of Longview and Vancouver must comply with the portions of the final rule requiring TWIC to be used as an access control measure. That notice will be published at least 90 days before compliance is required.

To obtain information on the pre-enrollment and enrollment process, and enrollment locations, visit TSA's TWIC Web site at <http://www.tsa.gov/twic>.

Issued in Arlington, Virginia, on June 20, 2008.

Program Manager, TWIC, Office of Transportation Threat Assessment and Credentialing, Transportation Security Administration.
