BILLING CODE 3410-16-P

DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE

Economic Development Administration

[Docket No.: 0809241258-81264-01]

Introduction of New Application for Investment Assistance (Form ED-900)

AGENCY: Economic Development Administration (EDA), Department of Commerce.

ACTION: Notice; introduce funding application form.

SUMMARY: The Economic Development Administration (EDA) publishes this notice to introduce its new Application for Investment Assistance (Form ED-900). Previously, applicants were required to complete and submit a Pre-Application for Investment Assistance (Form ED-900P), followed by an Application for Investment Assistance (Form ED-900A) if EDA deemed that the proposed project merited further consideration. In addition, applicants were required to submit additional application forms to address EDA's programmatic requirements, depending on the type of funding assistance sought. The new Form ED-900 consolidates all EDA-specific requirements into a single application form. EDA will continue to require additional government-wide federal grant assistance forms from the Standard Form 424 family as part of the application package. This change, which is effective November 1, 2008, is prospective and will not affect previously submitted applications or require the submission of new application packages.

DATES: On October 1, 2008, EDA will make available the new Form ED-900 for use by applicants seeking EDA investment assistance. There will be a one-month period to completely phase-in the use of the new Form ED-900. Applications received before November 1, 2008 using previously issued application forms may still be processed; however, beginning November 1, 2008, only the Form ED-900, along with specific forms and attachments from the Standard Form 424 family, will be accepted for consideration. This applies to any applicant that already has submitted a Pre-Application for Investment Assistance (Form ED-900P). If EDA invites such an applicant's project, beginning November 1, 2008, the applicant must complete and submit the new Form ED-900, with guidance from EDA. Any applications received on or after November 1, 2008 using previously issued EDA application forms will be returned to the applicant with appropriate instructions on how to access and complete the new Form ED-900.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Background

EDA's mission is to lead the federal economic development agenda by promoting innovation and competitiveness, preparing American regions for growth and success in the worldwide economy. In implementing this mission pursuant to the Public Works and Economic Development Act of 1965, as amended (42 U.S.C. 3121 et seq.) (PWEDA), EDA advances growth by providing assistance to communities and regions experiencing chronic high unemployment and low per capita income to create an environment that fosters innovation, promotes entrepreneurship, and attracts increased private capital investment. Under PWEDA, EDA provides assistance through five economic development programs that support a wide range of economic development needs: (i) Public Works, which helps support the construction or rehabilitation of essential public infrastructure and facilities; (ii) Economic Adjustment Assistance, which provides a wide range of technical, planning, and infrastructure assistance and may include Non-Construction, Revolving Loan Fund, and Design and Engineering projects; (iii) Research and National and Local Technical Assistance, which supports research projects of leading, world class economic development practices and funds information dissemination efforts; (iv) Planning, which helps support planning organizations in the development, implementation, revision or replacement of comprehensive economic development strategies and includes Short-Term and State Planning projects; and (v) the University Center Economic Development Program, which is a partnership between the federal government and academia that helps to make the varied and vast resources of universities available to economic development communities.

Previously, an applicant seeking EDA funding was required to complete and submit a maximum of three EDA-specific application forms: (i) A Pre-Application for Investment Assistance (Form ED-900P); (ii) an Application for Investment Assistance (Form ED-900A); and (iii) a program-specific supplement to Form ED-900A. The Standard Form 424 family was embedded within the Form ED-900A and the applicable program-specific supplement.

Structure of the New Form ED-900

On October 1, 2008, EDA will introduce Form ED-900, which consolidates into a single application all of EDA's program-specific requirements contained in the ED-900P, the ED-900A, and the program-specific components to ED-900A. The new Form ED-900 is divided into lettered sections that correspond to specific EDA program components (e.g., Local or National Technical Assistance; Construction Assistance), which address all of EDA's statutory and regulatory requirements. Only the first section, Section A, solicits general information regarding a proposed project and must be completed by all applicants for any type of assistance. Section B solicits specific economic data to help EDA assess an applicant's regional eligibility for Public Works or Economic Adjustment Assistance, and Section C solicits information to help EDA determine the applicant's maximum allowable investment rate for Planning, Local and National Technical Assistance, University Center, or Research and Evaluation projects. Section D solicits documents from non-governmental applicants relevant to organizational capacity and structure. The remaining sections solicit information essential for EDA to assess project effectiveness and competitiveness by program type, such as project coordination with existing economic development strategies and potential impact. Sections E, F, G, H, I, J, K, L, M, and N solicit such information from applicants for Non-Construction, Planning, Short-Term Planning, State Planning, Local or National Technical, University Center, Economic Adjustment, Revolving Loan Fund, Construction, and Design and Engineering Assistance, respectively. The Form ED-900 also contains a series of exhibits, which include EDA and Department of Commerce assurances and the Calculation of Estimated Relocation and Land Acquisition Expenses. The text of the Form ED-900 specifies which exhibits are required for each type of applicant.

Benefits of the New Form ED-900

The agency's goal in replacing the ED-900P, the ED-900A, and the program-specific supplements to ED-900A with the Form ED-900 is to reduce significantly the paperwork burden on applicants and government personnel and to reduce confusion over which program-specific component should be submitted. In addition, because the new Form ED-900 consolidates all EDA requirements into a single application, EDA anticipates and encourages increased electronic application submission through Grants.gov at <http://www.grants.gov>. According to Paperwork Reduction Act estimates approved by the Office of Management and Budget (OMB), the use of the ED-900 will reduce applicant burden from a combined 46 hours for Forms ED-900P, ED-900A, and the project specific component to 22 hours.

Where To Obtain the New Form ED-900 and Submission Instructions

Applicants are advised to read carefully the instructions contained in the applicable Federal Funding Opportunity (FFO) announcement under which they are applying, Form ED-900, and the relevant Standard Forms (SF) 424 in the SF-424 family. The content of the application is the same for paper submissions as it is for electronic submissions. EDA will not accept facsimile transmissions of applications.

To apply for all types of EDA assistance, applicants must submit a completed Form ED-900 and the Application for Federal Assistance (Form SF-424), both of which are available at Grants.gov or <http://www.eda.gov/InvestmentsGrants/Application.xml>. Applicants also must submit specific forms in the SF-424 family of forms, depending on whether the applicant seeks funding for a non-construction or construction-related project. For example, if an applicant seeks funding for a non-construction project, Budget Information—Non-Construction Programs (Form SF-424A) and Assurances—Non-Construction Programs (Form SF-424B) also must be submitted. If an applicant seeks funding for a construction project, Budget Information—Construction Programs (Form SF-424C) and Assurances—

Construction Programs (Form SF-424D) also must be submitted. The applicant also must submit a Department of Commerce (CD) form concerning lobbying, Certification Regarding Lobbying (Form CD-511) and may be required to submit to an individual background screening using Applicant for Funding Assistance (Form CD-346). The applicant also may be required to submit a Disclosure of Lobbying Activities (Form SF-LLL). All of these forms previously were required and embedded within the Form ED-900A and the applicable program-specific supplement. The new Form ED-900 provides detailed guidance to help the applicant assess whether Forms CD-346 and SF-LLL are required. All above-noted forms are available through Grants.gov or at <http://www.eda.gov/InvestmentsGrants/Application.xml>. You may find most forms on Grants.gov within the SF-424 Family Active Forms Repository at <http://apply07.grants.gov/apply/FormLinks?family=15>. Although the Form CD-346 is not available on Grants.gov as a mandatory form, the new Form ED-900 provides guidance on uploading the form for submission through Grants.gov in the optional documents section.

Please note that an applicant need not complete all sections of the Form ED-900. As noted above, the sections an applicant must complete is determined by the program under which funding is sought. Based on program type, the following table details the sections and exhibits in the ED-900 that the applicant must complete. This table also is provided on the first page of the Instructions to the Form ED-900.
