National Institute of Corrections

Solicitation for a Cooperative Agreement—IBM Instructional Guide and Assessment Tool Development

AGENCY: National Institute of Corrections, U.S. Department of Justice.

ACTION: Solicitation for a Cooperative Agreement.

SUMMARY: The National Institute of Corrections (NIC) is soliciting proposals from organizations, groups, or individuals to enter into a cooperative agreement for a 12-month period to begin no later than September 15, 2013. Work under this cooperative agreement will involve the development of an instructional guide and assessment tool(s) that will help jail practitioners improve their assessment of inmate needs and management of inmate behavior. Needs are defined as the physical or psychological requirement for well-being. Inmates have a variety of needs that should be identified and managed during their stay in jail. This project will be a collaborative venture with the NIC Jails Division.

NIC Opportunity Number: 13JD04. This number should appear in the reference line in your cover letter, on Standard Form 424 in section 11 with the title of your proposal, and in the right justified header of your proposal.

Number of Awards and Funds Available: Under this solicitation, one award will be made. The total amount of funds available under this solicitation is $30,000.00. Funds awarded under this solicitation may only be used for activities directly related to the project as described herein unless otherwise amended in writing by NIC.

Applications: All applicants must be submitted electronically via <http://www.grants.gov>. Hand delivered, mailed, faxed, or emailed applications will not be accepted.

DATES: Application must be submitted before midnight on Wednesday, July 3, 2013.

Authority: Pub. L. 93-415.

Eligibility of Applicants: An eligible applicant is any public or private agency, educational institution, organization, individual or team with expertise in the described areas.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Background: The National Institute of Corrections (NIC) has identified six key elements in the effective management of inmate behavior in jails:

- Assessing the risks and needs of each inmate at various points during his/her detention
- Assigning inmates to appropriate housing
- Meeting inmates' basic needs
- Defining and conveying expectations for inmate behavior
- Supervising inmates
- Keeping inmates productively occupied

If a jail fully and properly implements all six elements, it should experience a significant reduction in the unwanted and negative inmate behavior often experienced in jails, such as vandalism, violence, rule violations, and disrespectful behavior toward staff and other inmates.

The NIC Jails Division offers training and technical assistance on inmate behavior management but wishes to develop additional tools that will help jails implement the individual elements.

Scope of Work: The awardee will produce an instructional guide and assessment tool(s) that have received initial editing from a professional editor. NIC will be responsible for the final editing process, but the awardee will remain available during this time to answer questions and to make revisions to the materials.

The list below shows the major activities required to complete the project. Document development will begin upon award of this agreement and must be complete 12 months after the award date. The schedule for completion of activities should include, at a minimum, the following activities. The awardee will:

- Meet with the NIC project manager for an overview of the project and initial planning
- Review materials provided by NIC
- Review needs assessment tool(s) that are currently available
- Complete the initial outline of a guide, a draft of the tool(s) content, and layout
- Meet with the NIC project manager to review, discuss, and agree on the content outline
- Pilot test the assessment tool(s) in at least two selected jurisdictions
- Provide a report on the outcome of the pilot tests and make adjustments as necessary

- Submit a draft of the assessment tool(s) and instructional guide to NIC for review
- Revise the items for NIC's approval
- Submit the material to NIC in hard copy and on disk in an agreed upon format, e.g. Microsoft Word or Excel.

Throughout the project period, the awardee should make provision for meetings with NIC staff to be held in Washington, DC, at critical planning and review points in document development. Meetings can be accomplished using internet conferencing such as WebEx.

Jail administrators and management staff comprise the audience for these materials. This guide is intended for use by jails of all sizes. In developing the assessment tool(s) and instructional guide, the awardee must take into account the diversity of jails in terms of size and resources and the sometimes severe resource limitations many jails face.

Jail practitioners will use these tools to assess inmate needs at the time of entry to a facility and at various points during incarceration. The tool(s) will work in conjunction with the assessment of risk tools. The products will be companions to other materials NIC is developing on inmate behavior management.

Deliverables: Deliverables for this project include completed assessment tool(s) that have been professionally edited and an instructional guide for the tool(s) submitted in Word format.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: All technical or programmatic questions concerning this announcement should be directed to Fran Zandi, Correctional Program Specialist, National Institute of Corrections who may be reached by email at fzandi@bop.gov. In addition to the direct reply, all questions and responses will be posted on NIC's Web site at www.nicic.gov for public review (the names or affiliations of those submitting questions will not be posted). The Web site will be updated regularly and postings will remain on the Web site until the closing date of this cooperative agreement solicitation.

Solicitation for a Cooperative Agreement—Gender-Informed Research (Women): Enhanced Approaches to Project Development

AGENCY: National Institute of Corrections, U.S. Department of Justice.

ACTION: Solicitation for a Cooperative Agreement.

SUMMARY: The National Institute of Corrections (NIC) is seeking applications from organizations, groups, or individuals to enter into a cooperative agreement with NIC for an 18-month period to begin no later than September 15, 2013. Work under this cooperative agreement will involve convening a working group with the purpose of identifying key areas of gender-informed knowledge specific to women that will both inform a future research agenda and define a project that would further incorporate these key areas into NIC initiatives and provide further guidance for policymakers and practitioners in their management of this population. The audience for this project is quite broad, representing all aspects of corrections (jails, prisons, and community corrections), the research and academic community, other Federal agencies, state and local entities and other related stakeholders that have an interest in this population. The deliverables from this solicitation will be based on research and theory and are meant to provide a medium to inform NIC initiatives as well as more generally the corrections field, with the goal of improved system and individual outcomes. This project will be a collaborative venture with the NIC Community Services Division.

NIC Opportunity Number: 13CS12
This number should appear in the reference line in your cover letter, on Standard Form 424 in section 11 with the title of your proposal, and in the right justified header of your proposal.

Number of Awards and Funds

Available: Under this solicitation, 1 (one) Award will be made. The total amount of funds available under this solicitation is $65,000.00.

Applications: All applicants must be submitted electronically via <http://www.grants.gov>. Hand delivered, mailed, faxed, or emailed applications will not be accepted.

DATES: Application must be submitted before midnight on Tuesday, July 9, 2013.

Authority: Public Law 93-415.

Eligibility of Applicants: An eligible applicant is any public or private agency, educational institution, organization, individual or team with expertise in the described areas.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Background: Historically, studies focusing on the management of correctional populations have drawn their inferences from samples that have been predominantly male, with hypotheses developed from those same bodies of research. Much of that research applies to both justice-involved women and men, and the incorporation of that research in correctional policy and practice has advanced the profession and contributed to the improved use of resources. However, there has been emerging research specific to justice-involved women and the most significant innovation in policy, practice, and gender-informed programs for women has occurred during the past 10 years or so.

In 2006, NIC convened a meeting of researchers and practitioners focusing on the evidence-based research that was often perceived as being equally applicable to both men and women and gender-informed research, which has been developed on samples composed entirely of women. The purpose of that event was to identify important key findings regarding gender-responsive strategies and evidence-based practices; develop consensus on areas of convergence across the bodies of knowledge; explore those beliefs and assumptions that were not yet fully supported by large bodies of research but could nonetheless guide future research and policy with justice-involved women; identify key research questions; and discuss the ways that NIC could guide the field in its work
