

regulatory compliance. Additionally, the Exchange believes proposed rule change does not raise any new policy issues not previously considered by the Commission nor impose any significant burden on competition because it will: (1) Result in less burdensome and more efficient regulatory compliance for common members; and (2) facilitate FINRA's performance of its regulatory functions under the 17d-2 Agreement.

Accordingly, the Exchange has designated this rule filing as non-controversial under section 19(b)(3)(A) of the Exchange Act¹² and paragraph (f)(6) of Rule 19b-4 thereunder.¹³ Because the proposed rule change does not: (1) Significantly affect the protection of investors or the public interest; (2) impose any significant burden on competition; and (3) become operative prior to 30 days from the date on which it was filed, or such shorter time as the Commission may designate, if consistent with the protection of investors and the public interest, the proposed rule change has become effective pursuant to section 19(b)(3)(A) of the Exchange Act and Rule 19b-4(f)(6)(iii) thereunder.

A proposed rule change filed under Rule 19b-4(f)(6)¹⁴ normally does not become operative prior to 30 days after the date of the filing. However, pursuant to Rule 19b-4(f)(6)(iii),¹⁵ the Commission may designate a shorter time if such action is consistent with the protection of investors and the public interest. The Exchange has asked the Commission to waive the 30-day operative delay so that the proposal may become operative immediately upon filing. The Exchange stated its belief that this proposal is non-controversial and will not significantly affect the protection of investors because the Exchange is not proposing any substantive changes and is merely amending its rule text to mirror FINRA's rules. Based on the Exchange's statements and the non-controversial nature of the proposed rule change, the Commission believes that waiving the operative delay is consistent with the protection of investors and the public interest. Accordingly, the Commission hereby grants the Exchange's request and waives the 30-day operative delay.¹⁶

At any time within 60 days of the filing of such proposed rule change, the Commission summarily may temporarily suspend such rule change if it appears to the Commission that such action is necessary or appropriate in the public interest, for the protection of investors, or otherwise in furtherance of the purposes of the Exchange Act.

IV. Solicitation of Comments

II. Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement of the Purpose of, and Statutory Basis for, the Proposed Rule Change

In its filing with the Commission, the self-regulatory organization included statements concerning the purpose of, and basis for, the proposed rule change and discussed any comments it received on the proposed rule change. The text of those statements may be examined at the places specified in Item IV below. The Exchange has prepared summaries, set forth in sections A, B, and C below, of the most significant parts of such statements.

A. Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement of the Purpose of, and the Statutory Basis for, the Proposed Rule Change

1. Purpose

The Exchange proposes to harmonize the quantitative continued listing standards applicable to companies listed under Sections 102.01C and 103.01B of the Manual ("operating companies").

The Exchange's financial initial listing standards for domestic operating companies are set forth in Section 102.01C of the Manual and financial initial listing standards applicable to non-U.S. operating companies are set forth in Section 103.01B of the Manual.³ The Exchange's financial continued listing standards for operating companies are set forth in Section 802.01B of the Manual.⁴ All operating companies are subject to continued listing requirements to maintain (i) a stock price on a 30-trading-day average basis of $1.00 and (ii) a total market capitalization on a 30-trading day average basis of $15 million (the "Minimum Listing Criteria"). All listed operating companies are subject to additional financial continued listing requirements which vary depending on the initial listing standard in Section 102.01C or 103.01B under which the company originally listed.

The following are the current continued listing standards specific to operating companies listed under the various initial listing standards:

- A company that qualified to list under the Earnings Test set out in Sections 102.01C(I) or 103.01B(I), or pursuant to the requirements set forth under the Assets and Equity Test set forth in Section 102.01C(IV) or the

"Initial Listing Standard for Companies Transferring from NYSE Arca" (this standard is no longer in existence and was operative from October 1, 2008 until August 31, 2009), will be considered to be below compliance standards if average global market capitalization over a consecutive 30 trading-day period is less than $50,000,000 and, at the same time, total stockholders' equity is less than $50,000,000.

- A company that qualified to list under the Valuation/Revenue with Cash Flow Test set out in Section 102.01C(II)(a) or Section 103.01B(II)(a) will be considered to be below compliance standards if:

- average global market capitalization over a consecutive 30 trading-day period is less than $250,000,000 and, at the same time, total revenues are less than $20,000,000 over the last 12 months (unless the company qualifies as an original listing under one of the other original listing standards); or

- average global market capitalization over a consecutive 30 trading-day period is less than $75,000,000.

- A company that qualified to list under the Pure Valuation/Revenue Test set out in Section 102C.01(II)(b) or in Section 103.01B(II)(b) will be considered to be below compliance standards if:

- average global market capitalization over a consecutive 30 trading-day period is less than $375,000,000 and, at the same time, total revenues are less than $15,000,000 over the last 12 months (unless the company qualifies as an original listing under one of the other original listing standards); or

- average global market capitalization over a consecutive 30 trading-day period is less than $100,000,000.

- A company that qualified to list under the Affiliated Company Test set out in Section 102C.01(III) or Section 103.01B(III) will be considered to be below compliance standards if:

- the listed company's parent/affiliated company ceases to control the listed company, or the listed company's parent/affiliated company itself falls below the continued listing standards applicable to the parent/affiliated company, and

- average global market capitalization over a consecutive 30 trading-day period is less than $75,000,000 and, at the same time, total stockholders' equity is less than $75,000,000.

The Exchange proposes to amend the applicable continued listing standards such that every operating company will be subject to the same standards regardless of the standard under which such company initially qualified. The proposed amendment to Section 802.01B of the Manual will state that an operating company will be considered to be below compliance standards if its average global market capitalization over a consecutive 30 trading-day period is less than $50,000,000 and, at the same time, its total stockholders' equity is less than $50,000,000 (the "Proposed Continued Listing Standard").⁵

Currently, to determine whether an operating company complies with continued listing standards, the Exchange first looks to the financial standard under which the company initially qualified for listing and then applies the continued listing standard specified as applicable to that initial listing standard. The practical impact of this policy is that a company may be deemed noncompliant with the continued listing standard associated with the initial financial listing standard under which it originally qualified to list, notwithstanding the fact that it would have remained in compliance if subject to one of the other continued listing standards. This creates the anomalous result that two companies could have identical quantitative characteristics, yet one company would be deemed noncompliant and the other would remain compliant, purely on the basis of the initial listing standards under which the respective companies qualified to list many years previously. The Exchange believes this potential for disparate treatment is unfair to a listed company and its shareholders in the circumstance that a company is deemed noncompliant or delisted notwithstanding the fact that it would have remained compliant if one of the other continued listing standards was applicable. Moreover, many listed companies evolve subsequent to initial listing, and the idea that a company should be subject indefinitely to continued listing criteria tailored to the type of company it was at the time of initial listing no longer seems appropriate.

The Exchange notes that the approach of assigning different quantitative continued listing requirements to companies that originally listed under different listing standards was adopted in 2004, based on the assumption that a company should be subject to a continued listing requirement that was related to the elements in the financial listing standard under which it originally listed.⁶ However, the Exchange's experience administering these standards does not support the original assumption that the disparate standards would enhance the quality of operating companies listed on the Exchange. As discussed below, a review of data collected over more than five years indicates that all of the companies that were delisted under any of the other currently existing continued listing standards during that period would also have been delisted if they had instead been subject to the Proposed Continued Listing Standard, either pursuant to the Proposed Continued Listing Standard itself or pursuant to the Minimum Listing Criteria. Consequently, the Exchange derived no appreciable regulatory benefit during that period from having multiple continued listing standards rather than simply the Proposed Continued Listing Standard and the Minimum Listing Criteria. Therefore, the Exchange does not believe that it is necessary to continue to maintain a complicated set of alternative continued listing standards.

³ Non-U.S. companies are also permitted to list under the domestic listing standards set forth in Section 102.01C.

⁴ The Exchange also maintains continued listing standards with respect to distribution of shares, set forth in Section 802.01A of the Manual.

The Exchange acknowledges that the other currently applicable continued listing standards have higher minimum quantitative requirements for average market capitalization than the Proposed Continued Listing Standard. Most notably, the $50,000,000 minimum average market capitalization requirement of the Proposed Continued Listing Standard is lower than the minimum average market capitalization requirements of all of the other currently existing continued listing standards. However, the Exchange believes that, the proposed adoption of the Proposed Continued Listing Standard will not result in any meaningful weakening of the quality of companies listed on the Exchange. In that regard, the Exchange notes that almost all companies that are currently below compliance with their applicable financial continued listing standard will also be below compliance with the Proposed Continued Listing Standard at the time of its adoption. Further, the Exchange notes that more than 87% of the operating companies currently listed on the Exchange are already subject to a continued listing standard identical to the Proposed Continued Listing Standard. For those companies, therefore, there will be no change to their continued listing obligations as a result of the proposed rule change.

With regard to companies that are currently subject to one of the other continued listing standards, the Exchange believes that adoption of the Proposed Continued Listing Standard will not result in the continued listing of a meaningful number of companies that would be subject to delisting under the current continued listing standards. In reaching this conclusion, the Exchange reviewed all companies that were identified as below compliance for any of the financial standards between 2006 and 2012. Approximately 22% of the identified companies during that period were subject to a continued listing standard other than the Proposed Continued Listing Standard. Of those 22% of companies, a majority would have been cited for noncompliance with either the Proposed Continued Listing Standard or the Minimum Listing Criteria.⁷ With respect to the minority of companies that would not have fallen below either the Proposed Continued Listing Standard or the Minimum Listing Criteria, all have regained compliance and currently continue to be in compliance with the Exchange's quantitative continued listing standards. Based on this empirical data, therefore, the Exchange believes that the Proposed Continued Listing Standard, in combination with the Minimum Listing Criteria, is a rigorous measure that will capture the full universe of companies that are financially unsuitable for listing and will successfully maintain the quality of the Exchange's listing program.

The Exchange believes that the proposed amendment is consistent with Rule 3a51-1(a)(2)(ii) (the "Penny Stock Rule")⁸ under the Act. Section (a)(2) of the Penny Stock Rule provides that a security is not a penny stock for purposes of the rule if it is listed on a national securities exchange that has established quantitative continued listing standards that are reasonably related to certain enumerated initial listing standards and that are consistent with the maintenance of fair and orderly markets. The Penny Stock Rule's minimum initial listing standards are stockholders' equity ($5,000,000), market value of listed securities ($50,000,000) or net income ($750,000). The Proposed Continued Listing Standard requires that a listed company maintain an average global market capitalization over a consecutive 30 trading-day period of in excess of $50,000,000⁹ and stockholder's equity in excess of $50,000,000. The Exchange believes that global market capitalization is a comparable measure to the Penny Stock Rule's market value of listed securities requirement. Therefore, the Proposed Continued Listing Standard contains measures that are both related to, and equal to or far in excess of, the Penny Stock Rule's initial listing standards. Therefore, the Exchange believes that the proposed amendment is consistent with the Penny Stock Rule.

2. Statutory Basis

The Exchange believes that its proposal is consistent with Section 6(b) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 (the "Act"),¹⁰ in general, and furthers the objectives of Section 6(b)(5) of the Act,¹¹ in particular, in that it is designed to prevent fraudulent and manipulative acts and practices, to promote just and equitable principles of trade, to remove impediments to and perfect the mechanism of a free and open market and a national market system, and, in general, to protect investors and the public interest. In particular, the Exchange believes that the adoption of the Proposed Continued Listing Standard is consistent with the protection of investors and the public interest because: (i) The Exchange has many years of experience utilizing the Proposed Continued Listing Standard as the applicable continued listing standard for a large percentage of listed companies and, in the Exchange's experience, companies that remain in compliance with that standard are suitable for continued listing; and (ii) the Proposed Continued Listing Standard is unlikely to allow companies to remain listed that would not otherwise be suitable for listing, as the Exchange's review of historical listing compliance matters indicates that any company that falls below any other applicable quantitative listing standard will generally also fall below the Proposed Continued Listing Standard.

⁶ See Securities Exchange Act Release No. 49154 (January 29, 2004), 69 FR 5633 (February 5, 2004) (SR-NYSE-2003-43).

⁷ Of the 22 total companies that make up this percentage, eight would have fallen below the Proposed Continued Listing Standard and an additional four were delisted for falling below the Minimum Listing Criteria. An additional three of the 22 companies voluntarily delisted as a result of merger transactions.

⁸ 17 CFR 240.3a51-1.

⁹ For purposes of calculating global market capitalization, the Exchange will only consider securities that are (1) publicly traded (or quoted) or (2) convertible into a publicly traded (or quoted) security.

¹¹ 15 U.S.C. 78f(b)(5).

B. Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement on Burden on Competition

The Exchange does not believe that the proposed rule change will impose any burden on competition that is not necessary or appropriate in furtherance of the purposes of the Act. The proposed change is being made to rationalize the continued listing standards for operating companies listed on the Exchange. As the Exchange's research has indicated that this change will be unlikely to have any meaningful effect on the number of companies that will be delisted, the Exchange believes that it will not have any effect on the competition among listing markets and will result in no burden on competition.

C. Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement on Comments on the Proposed Rule Change Received From Members, Participants, or Others

No written comments were solicited or received with respect to the proposed rule change.

III. Date of Effectiveness of the Proposed Rule Change and Timing for Commission Action

Within 45 days of the date of publication of this notice in the Federal Register or within such longer period (i) as the Commission may designate up to 90 days of such date if it finds such longer period to be appropriate and publishes its reasons for so finding or (ii) as to which the self-regulatory organization consents, the Commission will:

- (A) by order approve or disapprove the proposed rule change, or
- (B) institute proceedings to determine whether the proposed rule change should be disapproved.
