(A) Unless the OCC determines otherwise, if the over $50 billion covered institution is a consolidated subsidiary of a bank holding company or savings and loan holding company subject to supervisory stress tests conducted by the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System pursuant to 12 CFR part 252, then within the June 15 to July 15 period such covered institution may not publish the required summary of its annual stress test earlier than the date that the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System publishes the supervisory stress test results of the covered bank's parent holding company.

(B) If the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System publishes the supervisory stress test results of the covered institution's parent holding company prior to June 15, then such covered institution may publish its stress test results prior to June 15, but no later than July 15, through actual publication by the covered institution or through publication by the parent holding company pursuant to paragraph (b) of this section.

FEDERAL DEPOSIT INSURANCE CORPORATION

12 CFR Part 325

RIN 3064-AE18

Annual Stress Test

AGENCY: Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

ACTION: Proposed rule with request for public comment.

SUMMARY: The Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (the "Corporation" or "FDIC") requests comment on this proposed rule that revises FDIC Rules and Regulations regarding the annual stress testing requirements for state non-member banks and state savings associations with total consolidated assets of more than $10 billion ("covered banks"). Our regulations, which implement section 165(i)(2) of the Dodd-Frank Wall Street Reform and Consumer Protection Act (the "Dodd-Frank Act"), requires covered banks to conduct annual stress tests and report the results of such stress test to the Corporation and the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System ("Board") and publicly disclose a summary of the results of the required stress tests. The FDIC proposes to modify the "as-of" dates for financial data (that covered banks will use to perform their stress tests) as well as the reporting dates and public disclosure dates of the annual stress tests for both $10 billion to $50 billion covered banks and $50 billion covered banks. The revisions to our regulations would become effective January 1, 2016.

DATES: Comments should be received on or before September 2, 2014.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

I. Background

A. Part 325 Subpart C—Annual Stress Test

Section 165(i) of the Dodd-Frank Act requires two types of stress tests. Section 165(i)(1) requires the Board to conduct annual stress tests of holding companies with $50 billion or more in total consolidated assets (“supervisory stress tests”). Section 165(i)(2) requires the federal banking agencies to issue regulations requiring financial companies with more than $10 billion in total consolidated assets to conduct annual stress tests themselves (“bank-run stress tests”). Part 325 Subpart C of the FDIC Rules and Regulations implements Section 165(i)(2) and requires FDIC-insured state non-member banks and FDIC-insured state-chartered savings associations with total consolidated assets of more than $10 billion (“covered banks”) to conduct annual stress tests. Section 165(i)(2)(C) of the Dodd-Frank Act also requires the Corporation, in coordination with the Board and the Federal Insurance Office, to issue consistent and comparable regulations to implement the requirements of this section. In October 2012, the FDIC, the Office of the Comptroller of the Currency, and the Board issued final rules implementing the company-run stress tests required by the Dodd-Frank Act.¹

Part 325 Subpart C identifies two categories for “covered banks”: A state nonmember bank or state savings association that has total consolidated assets from (1) $10 billion to $50 billion or (2) over $50 billion.² For both types of covered banks, the bank-run stress test must assess the potential impact of different scenarios³ on the capital of the covered bank and certain related items over a forward-looking, nine-quarter planning horizon, taking into account all relevant exposures and activities.⁴

Part 325 Subpart C also provides several timeframes for the testing, reporting, and publication of the bank-run stress tests, which vary depending on the category into which the covered bank falls. Under the current rule, the stress test cycle begins October 1 of a calendar year and ends on September 30 of the following calendar year. Covered banks use financial data as of September 30 (the “as of date”) of the preceding calendar year to make projections that estimate their financial position under the different stress scenarios and to report and publish the results of their annual stress test in the following calendar year. Covered banks with $10 billion to $50 billion in total assets must report the results of their stress tests by March 31 and publish a summary of their results between June 15 and June 30.⁵ Over $50 billion covered banks are required to report the results of their annual stress test by January 5 of each calendar year and publish a summary of their results between March 15 and March 31.⁶ These testing, reporting, and publication milestones are consistent across the Federal banking agencies’ annual stress testing rules.

A covered bank that is a consolidated subsidiary of a bank holding company or savings and loan holding company is generally permitted to publish abbreviated disclosures of its annual stress test results with the parent holding company’s summary and on the same timeline as the parent holding company.⁷ The FDIC requires that specific information be included in the disclosure to reflect the changes in the covered bank’s capital ratios and the reasons for those changes.

B. Overview of Proposed Rule

The FDIC is aware that the current testing and reporting dates for $10 billion to $50 billion and $50 billion covered banks occur at the beginning and end of the calendar year when there are competing regulatory and reporting deadlines that must be met. The FDIC is also aware that the testing reporting and publication cycles occur when covered banks are typically most resource-constrained. Furthermore, conducting stress testing during the first quarter of a calendar year may also make it difficult for covered banks to make timely modifications to strategic and operational plans for the following year that address any issues identified in the bank-run stress test results.

For these reasons, the FDIC is proposing to modify the dates of the stress test cycle and the corresponding reporting and publication deadlines as of January 1, 2016. The stress testing cycle that, under the current rule, begins on October 1, 2015, would instead begin on January 1, 2016. Under the proposed rule, covered banks would conduct bank-run stress tests using financial data as of December 31 of the preceding calendar year, which represents a 90-day shift from September 30 in the current rule. The FDIC would provide the economic scenarios to be used by covered banks in their bank-run stress tests no later than February 15 rather than November 15, as is provided under the existing rule. For those certain covered banks with significant amounts of trading activities that are required to include trading and counterparty components in their adverse and severely adverse scenarios, the FDIC will select an as-of date between January 1 and March 1 of that calendar year for the data used in this component. The FDIC will communicate this date to the covered banks no later than March 1.

Under the proposed rule all $10 billion to $50 billion covered banks would be required to conduct and submit the results of their bank-run stress tests to the FDIC by July 31 and publish those results during a period beginning on October 15 and ending October 31. Over $50 billion covered banks would be required to conduct and submit the results of their bank-run stress tests to the FDIC by April 7 and publish those results during a period beginning on June 15 and ending on July 15.

Furthermore, a covered bank that is a consolidated subsidiary of a bank holding company or savings and loan holding company that is required to conduct an annual company-run stress test under applicable regulations of the Board may continue to elect to conduct its stress test and report to the FDIC on the same timeline as its parent bank holding company or savings and loan

² 12 CFR 325.202. A $10 billion to $50 billion covered bank is a state nonmember bank or state savings association with average total consolidated assets greater than $10 billion but less than $50 billion. A $50 billion covered bank is a state nonmember bank or state savings association with average total consolidated assets that are not less than $50 billion.

⁴ 12 CFR 325.203; in addition, certain covered banks with significant amounts of trading activities (as determined by the FDIC) may be required to include trading and counterparty components in their adverse and severely adverse scenarios. For these covered banks, the FDIC selects an as-of date between October 1 and December 1 of that calendar year for the data used in this component. This date is communicated to the covered banks no later than holding company as it had under the existing rule. Under the proposed rule, however, an over $50 billion covered bank that is a consolidated subsidiary of a banking holding company or savings and loan holding company that is subject to supervisory stress tests conducted by the Board under 12 CFR part 252 (i.e., the Comprehensive Capital Analysis and Review or “CCAR”) may publish the required summary of its bank-run stress test no earlier than the date that the Board publishes the supervisory stress test results for the parent holding company, but no later than July 15. In addition, if the Board publishes the supervisory stress test results of the covered bank’s parent holding company prior to June 15, then the covered bank may satisfy its publication requirement either through actual publication by the covered bank or through publication by the parent holding company under § 325.207.

⁵ 12 CFR 325.204(a); 12 CFR 325.206(a).

⁶ 12 CFR 325.204(a); 12 CFR 325.206(a).

⁷ 12 CFR 325.207(b).

The proposed rule would also amend the applicability provisions in § 325.203 of the Annual Stress Test rule to reflect the changed timeline. Currently, a state nonmember bank or state savings association that becomes a covered bank must conduct its first annual stress test beginning in the next calendar year after the date the state nonmember bank or state savings association becomes a covered bank. Under the new stress testing timeline, if this applicability provision were left unchanged, if a state nonmember bank or state savings association became a covered bank as of September 30 of a given year, the institution would be required to conduct its first stress test in the stress testing cycle beginning the following January 1, three months after becoming a covered bank. The current rule provides a minimum of nine months between the date on which a state nonmember bank or state savings association becomes a covered bank and the start date of the stress testing cycle in which the covered bank must conduct its first stress test. To preserve the nine-month minimum the proposed rule would establish a March 31 cutoff date. A state nonmember bank or state savings association that becomes a covered bank on or before March 31 of a given year would be required to conduct its first stress test in the next calendar year. For example, a state nonmember bank or state savings association that becomes a covered bank on March 31, 2015 would be required to conduct its first stress test in the stress testing cycle beginning January 1, 2016. A state nonmember bank or state savings association that becomes a covered bank after March 31 of a given year would be required to conduct its first stress test in the second calendar year after the date the state nonmember bank or state savings association becomes a covered bank. For example, a state nonmember bank or state savings association that becomes a covered bank on June 30, 2015 would be required to conduct its first stress test in the stress testing cycle beginning January 1, 2017.

II. Request for Comments

The Corporation requests comments on all aspects of the proposed rule to revise Part 325 Subpart C, in particular:

- What, if any, specific challenges exist with respect to the proposed steps and time frames?

- Please comment on the use of the proposed: “as of date” of December 31, the April 7 and July 31 reporting dates, and the June 15 to July 15 and October 15 to October 31 publication dates for over $50 billion covered banks and $10 billion to $50 billion covered banks, respectively.

- Should the FDIC also modify the timing of when state nonmember banks and state savings associations become covered banks under the annual stress test rule? In particular, should the FDIC adopt transition provisions with fixed cutoff dates for state nonmember banks or state savings associations that become covered under Part 325 Subpart C, where such provisions provide specific date requirements indicating when covered banks would be subject to the next applicable stress test? If so, what should the cutoff dates be?

III. Administrative Law Matters

A. Paperwork Reduction Act Analysis

In accordance with the requirements of the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1995 (44 U.S.C. 3501–3521) (“PRA”), the Corporation may not conduct or sponsor, and the respondent is not required to respond to, an information collection unless it displays a currently valid Office of Management and Budget (“OMB”) control number. The information collections affected by this NPR are the FDIC’s Annual Stress Test Final Rule and Reporting Templates, [] and [].⁸

The Corporation proposes to revise 12 CFR 325.202, 325.203, 325.204, 325.206, and 325.207 by modifying timelines for the testing, reporting, and disclosure of the annual stress tests for covered banks. The revisions would shift by 90 days the as-of date of the financial data used to conduct bank run-stress tests for covered banks from September 30 to December 31. The proposed rule would also shift the reporting and disclosure deadlines for both $10 billion to $50 billion covered banks and over $50 billion covered banks and provide for a new transition period for those covered banks that become covered under the rule. Additionally, under the proposed rule an over $50 billion covered bank that is a consolidated subsidiary of a bank holding company or savings and loan holding company subject to supervisory stress tests conducted by the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System may publish the required summary of its annual stress no earlier than the date that the Board publishes the supervisory stress test results of the covered bank's parent holding company but no later than July 15. The revision of timelines in Part 325 subpart C will not involve any new collections of information pursuant to the PRA.

B. Regulatory Flexibility Act Analysis

The Regulatory Flexibility Act, 5 U.S.C. 601, et seq. ("RFA"), requires that each federal agency either certify that a proposed rule would not, if adopted in final form, have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities or prepare an initial regulatory flexibility analysis of the rule and publish the analysis for comment.⁹ The proposed rule would apply only to state nonmember banks and state savings associations with more than $10 billion in total consolidated assets. Under regulations issued by the Small Business Administration ("SBA"), a bank or other depository institution is considered "small" if it has $175 million or less in assets.¹⁰ As of December 31, 2013, there are approximately 2,363 small state nonmember banks and state savings associations. Since the proposed rule would apply only to state nonmember banks and state savings associations with more than $10 billion in total consolidated assets, the Corporation does not expect that the proposed rule will directly affect a substantial number of small entities. It is hereby certified that this rule will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities and therefore, a regulatory flexibility analysis under the RFA is not required.

C. Plain Language

Section 722 of the Gramm-Leach-Bliley Act (Pub. L. 106–102, 113 Stat.

1338, 1471, 12 U.S.C. 4809) requires Federal banking agencies to use plain language in all proposed and final rules published after January 1, 2000. The Corporation has sought to present the proposed rule in a simple and straightforward manner and invites comment on how to make the proposed rule easier to understand. For example:

- Is the material organized to suit your needs? If not, how could the rule be more clearly presented?
- Are the requirements in the rule clearly stated? If not, how could the rule be more clearly stated?
- Do the regulations contain technical language or jargon that is not clear? If so, which language requires clarification?
- Would a different format (grouping and order of sections, use of headings, paragraphing) make the regulation easier to understand? If so, what changes would achieve that?
- Is this section format adequate? If not, which of the sections should be changed and how?
- What other changes can the Corporation incorporate to make the regulation easier to understand?

financial data as of December 31 of the preceding calendar year.

(b) Scenarios provided by the Corporation.

In conducting the stress test under this subpart, each covered bank must use the scenarios provided the Corporation. The scenarios provided by the Corporation will reflect a minimum of three sets of economic and financial conditions, including: Baseline, adverse, and severely adverse scenarios. The Corporation will provide a description of the scenarios required under this section to each covered bank no later than November 15 (for the stress tests beginning October 1, 2014) or February 15 (for the stress test beginning January 1, 2016, and all stress tests thereafter) of that calendar year.

(c) Significant trading activities. The Corporation may require a covered bank with significant trading activities, as determined by the Corporation, to include trading and counterparty components in its adverse and severely adverse scenarios. The trading and counterparty position data used in these components will be as of a date between October 1 and December 1 (for the stress test beginning October 1, 2014) or between January 1 and March 1 (for the stress test beginning January 1, 2016, and all stress tests thereafter) of that calendar year selected by the Corporation and communicated to the covered bank no later than December 1 (for the stress test beginning October 1, 2014) or March 1 (for the stress test beginning January 1, 2016, and all stress tests thereafter) of the calendar year.

§ 325.207 Publication of stress test results.

Airworthiness Directives; The Boeing Company Airplanes

AGENCY: Federal Aviation Administration (FAA), DOT.

ACTION: Supplemental notice of proposed rulemaking (NPRM); reopening of comment period.

SUMMARY: We are revising an earlier proposed airworthiness directive (AD) for certain The Boeing Company Model 757-200, -200PF, -200CB, and -300 series airplanes. The NPRM proposed to require, for certain airplanes, installing new relays adjacent to two of the spoiler control modules. For certain other airplanes, the NPRM proposed to require torquing the bracket assembly installation nuts and ground stud nuts, and doing bond resistance tests between the bracket assemblies and the terminal lugs on the ground studs. The NPRM was prompted by numerous reports of unintended lateral oscillations during final approach, just before landing. This action revises the NPRM by adding actions that are necessary to address the identified unsafe condition. We are proposing this supplemental NPRM (SNPRM) to reduce the chance of unintended lateral oscillations near touchdown, which could result in loss of lateral control of the airplane, and consequent airplane damage or injury to flight crew and passengers. Since these actions impose an additional burden over that proposed in the NPRM, we are reopening the comment period to allow the public the chance to comment on these proposed changes.

DATES: We must receive comments on this SNPRM by August 15, 2014.

ADDRESSES: You may send comments, using the procedures found in 14 CFR 11.43 and 11.45, by any of the following methods:
